Walum Olum

Walum Olum, the name of the "book" of the Lenape Indians, is the first recorded history of this tribe. About 1000 A.D. a famous tribe of Indians known as the Lenni Lenape, interpreted as the "original people," invaded eastern Pennsylvania and settled in our region. The traditional history of this tribe was inscribed on birch bark plates with carved figures. This was the only primitive eastern American Indian record that can be properly called a book. Since the Lenni Lenape were prominent in our area and called their history the "Walum Olum," we should like to record the history of our class in our "Walum Olum."

Dedication

The term "teacher" calls to mind qualities that are inseparable from the usual concept of the profession: devotion, self-sacrifice, compassion, understanding, tolerance. To be sure, abstractions such as these can capture his image; but the spirit of the teacher, the indefinable something that sets him apart from all others, is etched in the hearts and minds of his students.

For thirty-three years, Mr. Ensminger has given Upper Perkiomen's young citizens the inspirational leadership, friendly counsel, and gentle guidance that have caused so many to call him friend and teacher.

The thousands whose lives he has touched can never forget his lessons in living as well as in learning, his concern for the individual, his love for his work.

It is in their name, the myriads of grateful friends whose lives are a little better because they were a part of his, that we respectfully dedicate to Mr. Victor Ensminger the 1960 Walum Olum.

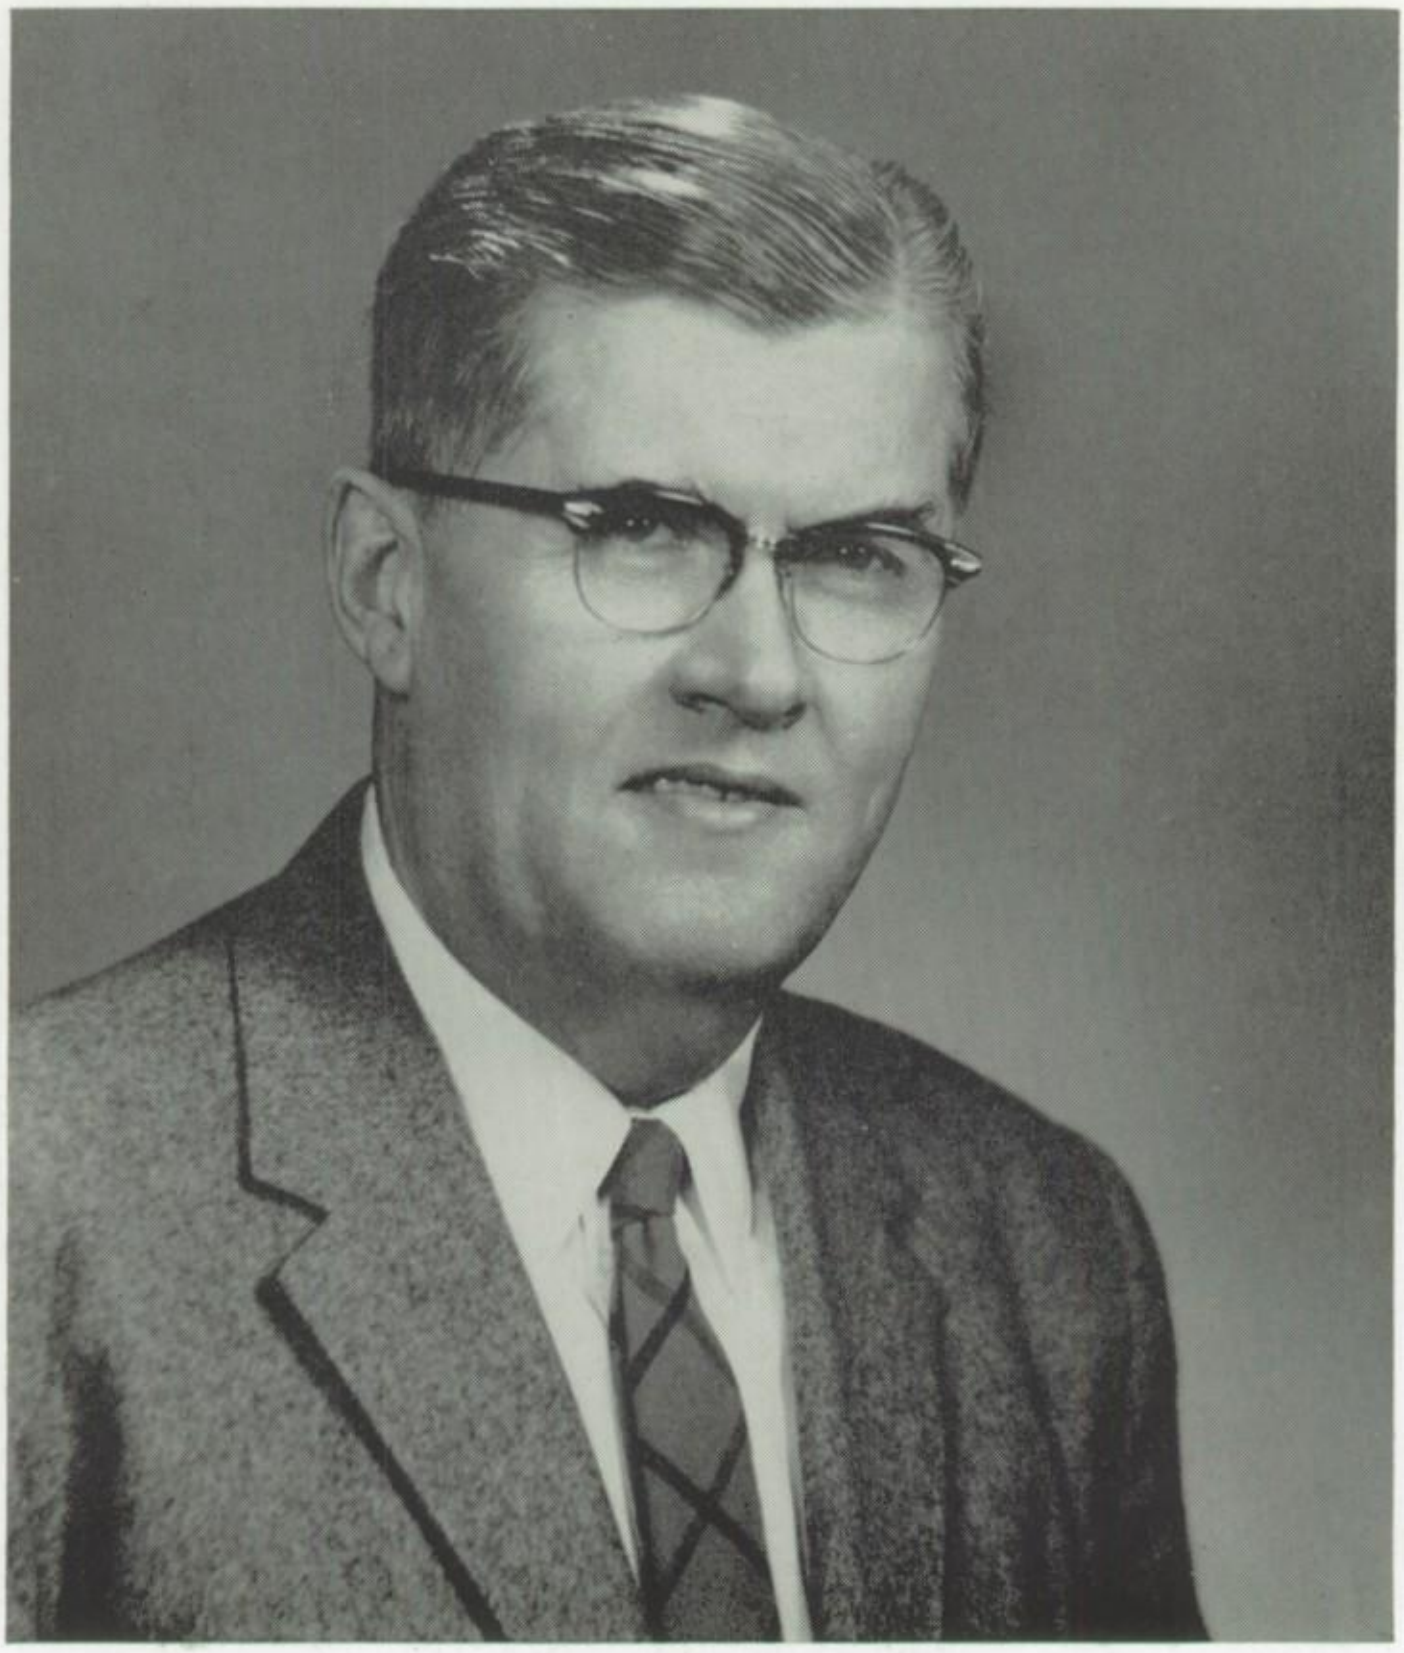
They gave us direction



Mr. Kurtz

To the Class of 1960

Best wishes for a most successful and happy future to all of you! You have enjoyed the privileges of public education in a democratic society. Contrary to educational opportunities as provided by some foreign countries, each one of you has been privileged to elect and complete any desired course. You have been prepared to live your lives as individuals rather than to live your lives for the state.

Life in a democracy demands thoughtful citizens. You have been taught to think. Reflective thinking and creative endeavor have not been neglected at the expense of years devoted to memorization of often irrelevant facts.

Upper Perkiomen Alumni are successfully making their marks in the world—the class of 1960 will not fail to do likewise.

STANLEY M. KURTZ, Supervising Principal
Upper Perkiomen Joint Schools

in our formative years.

Mr. Roth

In recent years unbelievable progress has been made in technology and science, especially in space science. The impact of this progress is felt in our schools, towns, cities, nation, and the world. Such a sudden change always brings with it new problems to solve and difficult decisions to make.

If the visions and hopes of mankind are to be realized for this world—freedom, and with it world peace—one must be able to decide what is good, desirable, and valuable for all concerned.

You are embarking into this world. It is hoped that your school has helped you with the knowledge and judgment that is needed to meet these problems and make just decisions.

"There is a past which is gone forever but there is a future which is still ours."

Best Wishes.

Guidance and Driver Education

Besides settling the academic, social, and emotional problems of Upper Perkiomen's harried youngsters, Mr. Horn and Mrs. Asquith have added the function of reading consultants to their already busy schedule. Youngsters can now do something about their reading problems, whether the weakness be faulty word recognition or lack of speed and comprehension.

Mr. Horn solves a few more problems.

Dented fenders banished forever? Not exactly. But good driving habits as taught by Mr. Peta go a long way toward protecting both car and operator. Although the theory course is required, the elective behind-the-wheel activities are immensely popular with juniors and seniors. Mr. Peta also instructs seniors in Consumer Education.

Music, Art and Library Science

Will Elvis modify his rock and roll style? Has be-bop left the scene forever? Perhaps it is not possible to find the answers to these questions through our Music Department, but one can amass a respectable background in the 3 B's or learn to distinguish a sonata from a concerto.

Especially helpful to the student is the personal instruction given to future singers and instrumentalists. The high quality of our bands and choruses proves the adequacy of the instruction.

For the Picassos and Dalis or just the weekend painters Mr. Matzo conducts a stimulating and enjoyable course in art that features developments in many techniques: oil painting, charcoal sketching, water color painting, perspective drawing, interpretive painting, and abstract drawing. And for the sculptors and ceramic addicts, there is an abundance of activities around the kiln and pedestal, some of which are carried out during club and activities periods.

"So that's what those numbers are for!" cry the underclassmen as the Dewey decimal system is explained to them for the first time. And with this valuable knowledge about their library, appreciation for the riches and vastness of the world of books begins.

From among the five thousand tomes we have taken our share of varied and pleasurable experiences. The newspapers and periodicals fill the hours not spent on the encyclopedia or the anthology. And through it all there is always the helpful librarian, guiding us to a discovery of some obscure data or recommending the best in contemporary literature. It is understandable, then, why the fountainhead of information is such a popular and busy center of student activity.

Science

Care to view an amoeba or a euglena? You'll need one of Mr. Snyder's microscopes. We remember those early experiments as we came to grips with the fundamentals of biology. And who can dispel the memory of a frog's innards? Or the pungent odor of formaldehyde?

Speaking of awful odors, those experiments with hydrogen sulphide are also good reason to skip lunch. Or are we missing the whole point of a year's work in chemistry? Have a happy reaction!

Reaction? Let's see, now. How many laws of motion did Newton propound? If you're really interested, sign up for Mr. Zoshak's course in physics. We'll never forget his practical demonstrations in our study of electricity. Shocking experiments, indeed!

Despite these puns and humorous recollections, we think we've learned quite a bit from the hard-working teachers of the Science Department. And if these gentlemen haven't produced a Galileo or a Pasteur, we are certain there was none to begin with.

How do you find the tangent of 108°36′? What's the log of 106.954? Did you multiply the interest rate in problem five? Where's my protractor? Despite the expressions of bewilderment and the loud lamentations, students absorb a wealth of knowledge that is tailored to the needs of the individual. In Upper Perk's Mathematics Department the housewife of the future learns all about exorbitant interest rates; the prospective farmer discovers ways and means of estimating yield per acre and profit ratio; the engineer and the navigator drill in the complexities of algebra, solid geometry, and trigonometry. This versatile program and the talented corps of instructors make this department one of Upper Perkiomen's finest.

English

Here is a group of ladies and gentlemen who are dedicated to the eradication of fused and fragmentary sentences, tense shifts, disunified sentences, and faulty diction. Nor will they ever let up on students who can't distinguish between "to" and "too," "there" and "their," or "then" and "than." But if you really want to see them get their danders up, write 'a lot" as one word—brother! Or try using the past participle without an auxiliary verb for a truly frightening display of artistic temperament.

The English Department, it is true, possesses a staff of eminently qualified teachers, many of whom are the best prepared instructors in this area. Fortunately, some of their competence has managed to rub off on us, for there is yet to be recorded in recent years, an Upper Perk failure in college English.

But the real joy in studying English stems from the satisfaction of knowledge, knowledge that we can express ourselves and in turn interpret the communication of others. That seems to be a simple enough task, yet mastery of our mother tongue and all the attendant skills of the subject requires years of intense study.

We are grateful to our English Department for the impetus they have given us in that direction and for the kind of instruction that often made so arduous a task a real pleasure.

Languages

Latin is a most dangerous language, for students risk the probability of a test every day. Those synopses and declensions really kept us on our toes! Our very competent instructor Mr. Schlegel makes this dead language live again as he periodically revives Caesar for the benefit of Latin scholars interested in the "Glory that was Rome."

Want to borrow a sombrero in Spanish? Mr. Novotny's students can, for he teaches them to apply their understanding of this currently important language to everyday use. Class members are encouraged to converse freely (as best they can) so that they can develop a naturalness of expression, not a bookish memorization of stock phrases. Hence it is not uncommon to hear these future diplomats or potential oil executives shout something like "Como esta, Senor?" or "Muy bien, gracias."

Der, die, das—the three definite articles of the German language that have defied declension! At least that's what some of Mr. Schlicher's charges claim. Small wonder that the novels Immensee and Der Neffe als Uncles have won such favor among the perplexed grammarians who cry, "Geben Sie uns Geschichte." which translated freely means, "Give us stories."

Mr. Schlicher directs three interested German students in a declension of the articles.

Social Studies

Don't think for a moment that Upper Perk grads don't know how a bill becomes a law or the procedure by which the Constitution can be amended. And they can tell you all about the Renaissance and Reformation or the Civil War, too. In fact, Upper Perkiomen's student body is well aware of the widening currents of our times and the historical precedents in which they have their source.

This excellent frame of reference for history, civics, government, and allied subjects is a direct result of the prodigious and inspired labors of our Social Studies Department.

Commercial Subjects

You can easily identify a new Commercial student by those ink-stained hands and those broken fingernails, the first sustained by the changing of typewriter ribbons, the latter by the repair of mimeograph machines and calculators. And when these future office workers aren't busy cleaning their digits and repairing their manicures, they are occupied by the niceties of shorthand, the merriment of the dictaphone, or the deviltry of the comptometer. But whether the cry was "Foul" in the bookkeeping trials or "Murder" through those typing speed tests, we are certain that these secretaries and stenographers-to-be have been as well-prepared for their futures as their counterparts in any other school.

Class attention! Right face! Forward march! Sound familiar? Yes, these commands precede the aching back and screaming leg muscles that are a part of the physical fitness program at U. P. But there is fun to be had, too.

Team play, an exciting lesson in the value of cooperation, features competition in most major sports. Participating in the kinds of contests we also like to observe, we learn to appreciate the fine points of football, basketball, volley ball, track, baseball, and other spectator sports. And all the while we are aware that we are developing healthy bodies and keen minds.

But sound bodies and alert minds are not enough. A well-rounded physical education course must include concepts of sportsmanship and fair play. Fortunately, Upper Perkiomen has Mrs. Merring, Miss Orlando, Mr. Duka, and Mr. Roncace to teach us these things. Ideals and principles are never sacrificed for victory. And after the sore arms and aching backs have long been forgotten, we will have with us a memory of "How we played the game" as well as how to play the game.

The year 1960 ushered in the eleventh appearance of an Upper Perk project at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. "Always Reddy to Work" caught the judges' eyes as it was awarded second place in general competition and first prize among the electrical entries. However, this is only one of many accomplishments of the members of the Vocational Agriculture Course. The boys maintain a high level of competence through study of the latest circulars and charts on soil conservation, crop raising, and livestock production as they plan their annual projects.

Our Vocational Homemaking Course is equally good. Movies, individual projects, and discussions enable the girls to reach their prime objective—becoming better homemakers. And we're sure that there aren't many scorched souffles or indestructible steaks resulting from their culinary experiments.

The newly-furnished wood and metal shops have given industrial students something to cheer about. This handsome equipment in the skillful hands of Mr. Wavrek makes possible advanced vocational training for future machinists and cabinet makers.

Class History

Way back in 1956, when we were only freshmen, we impatiently waded into the routine and mysteries of big school life. Eagerly we tried our wings, accepting the responsibilities that were ours as Upper Perkiomen's newest citizens. We chose our class colors, designed our class emblem, and planned our activities with all the sophistication of upper classmen.

Remember the song "Silhouettes"? That was the theme for our record dance, held January 4, 1958. And speaking of memories, can you seniors recall the fun we had on Sophomore Day? The Sock Hop? Those "league" class hats? Or the girls with those yellow chrysanthemums? By that time we were almost juniors; we had really arrived!

Next to this, our senior year, the junior year was the most eventful and nostalgic. What pride we took in our beautiful class rings! What effort we put into preparations for the prom, "Heaven and Earth"! That was January 24, 1959, and heaven seemed close indeed, as those who can recall the fine music of Eddie Holmes' Orchestra will attest. And since spring comes around every year, we found ourselves just two months later, applauding our dramatically inclined classmates who cavorted through three acts of, "And Never Been Kissed." Yes, it was spring—just one year ago.

September, 1959. At last we were seniors. What a glorious feeling to be Upper Perk's leaders and to assume the privileges of rank. Our class members captained the athletic teams, sparked Student Council, directed the activities of all major school organizations, and welded the student body into a spirited group of young people, working together for the betterment of our school. That class factions were eliminated is a tribute to the seniors' understanding of leadership.

Throughout those early months of our final year, we kept busy with the regimen of our studies, but we took time out for some fun, too. By December 11, the senior play, "Home Sweet Homicide" was ready and as our talented actors and actresses won the acclaim of their audience, we realized that another milestone had been passed.

During the winter months we watched with mixed emotions the trials of our basketball squad, a scrappy but undermanned ball club. We also attended dances, entered exhibits in the science fair, played in the Bux-Mont Band, visited colleges, and engaged in the many activities of our class and school, unheedful of the fact that the months were beginning to roll. And as the season turned, we began to feel the first twinges of regret, for spring had arrived and time for us was running out.

Among our last activities as a group were the trip to Washington on April 14, an educational and entertaining junket, and the senior prom, "Prelude," held May 28. Eddie Holmes and his orchestra, our sentimental favorites, provided the musical background for an evening tuned to fond recollections.

Just eight days and some hectic final exams later, the class assembled at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Red Hill for baccalaureate services. A moving experience, the ceremony was one we shall never forget, for now we fully realized we were drawing ever closer to the adult responsibilities of the graduate.

June 5, a day we had looked forward to for a long time, and we wished it could have lasted forever. The memories are complete: caps, gowns, the formal procession, the exhortations, the best wishes. Just a few more handshakes, the thinning crowd, and the class of 1960 became part of Upper Perkiomen's history.

Class of 1961

An industrious Junior Class served notice this year that they are ready, willing, and able to fill our shoes. If the Junior Prom was any indication of their maturity and drive, we can safely say that the immediate future of our school is in good hands. The theme, "Bali Hai," was implemented by an island scene of exotic beauty, replete with grass shack and palm trees. Scott Collins and the Artists supplied the music that wafted their listeners away to the fabled isles of the South Pacific.

The spring offering, "Onions in the Stew," showed the juniors to be an accomplished group of thespians. A study in hilarity, the play concerned a "citified" family that removed its residence to an island in Puget Sound.

As seniors, these young actors and actresses will have to work hard to improve upon so fine a performance.

Although they don't need it, we wish the best of luck to the Class of 1961 in every endeavor next term and hope their last year will be even more successful than ours.

Industrious juniors make the most of study halls.

Class of 1962

Having chosen their class colors, green and white, the sophomores inaugurated their activities with the first class dance, "Snowflake Swirl," held on January 9, 1960.

A creative group, two of the class' members lent their talents to the design of an original class emblem. Thomas Schantz and Sandra Schultz are to be congratulated for their fine effort.

These peppy underclassmen highlighted the year with Sophomore Day, an occasion for sporting the distinctive new green and white chapeaux that typified the pert attitude of the sophs. They were also responsible for the selection of a newly styled class ring.

Showing plenty of enthusiasm, these spunky youngsters will undoubtedly inject plenty of their vigor into the rest of the student body in their remaining two years.

Although activities as a class are limited in the first year of high school, the frosh went about their work with the competency of upper classmen. Homeroom presidents were elected and congratulations are in order for Jeffrey Brode, Rodney Hasker, Jon Roncace, and Bruce Ziegenfuse.

As a group, the freshmen selected their class emblem and class colors, light and dark green.

Special mention should be made of the excellent team record rung up by the basketball squad, an achievement that promises bright days for Upper Perk in the near future.

Walum Olum

After a slow start and some organizational difficulties, the 1960 Walum Olum staff rolled up their sleeves and began assailing the task of producing the best yearbook within the scope of their capabilities. By November work moved into high gear with the awarding of the publication contract to Horan Engraving Company and Kutztown Publishing Company, both of which are represented by Mr. Sharp. As their advisors, the class welcomed Messrs. Neiman and R. Schlicher into the fold, and by the middle of the month the committees were functioning smoothly and efficiently. Especially commendable was the swift and competent work of the layout committee.

Besides the twice weekly meetings, the staff occasionally held after-school and weekend conclaves to complete the hundreds of labors that have culminated in this yearbook. To insure its success financially as well as literarily, the zealous seniors established a new sales record (with a brisk subscription campaign), hustled refreshments at athletic events and social activities, and whipped up a frenzied drive for patronage.

Adding to their optimum effort the photographic wizardry of Mr. Styer, the staff feels certain that the 1960 Walum Olum will be an enjoyable adventure for all its readers as well as a tender remembrance of things past for the class of 1960.

Student Council

A voice for the student body—a school for developing leadership—an adjunct of the administration—a practical experience in accepting responsibility—these are the primary functions of the Upper Perkiomen Student Council.

Always busy behind the scenes, planning and executing programs for school improvement, our council has given more to Upper Perkiomen than most of us realize. It was the council that revised the handbook, amended the constitution, programmed the assemblies, conducted the clean-up campaign, sponsored dances, spear-headed a resurgence of school spirit, and maintained a high level of order in the corridors.

Whether they were salesmen or policemen, booking agents or legislators, our council members were magnificent.

That new phone booth in the lobby took some doing, but council's energy and help made it a shining reality.

Despite its ambitious program, the Upper Perkiomen Student Council, sponsored by Mr. Hagenauer, seeks constantly to improve upon its performance. That is why twice a year a delegation from the council attends the Tri-County Student Council Convention. Through a rich interchange of ideas, representatives come away with the most modern concepts in student government and a knowledge that their student council will be second to none.

Superlatives are certainly in order for this hard working organization.

Alert and high-spirited council members follow Evonne Schultz's explanations of parliamentary procedure.

A tradition at Upper Perkiomen, the Perk-O-Lator offers its readers a wide variety of subjects: Sports highlights, alumni news, Student Council reports, class activities, schedules, humor, and biographical sketches.

Meeting weekly, the staff of fifty-seven and their advisors, Miss Pickar and Miss Mattocks, published six editions during the past term.

The staff also combined a little business with pleasure this year, sponsoring a dance, "Winter Fantasy," to help defray costs of publication.

Terminating the year are the junior and senior editions which in the former case provide the underclassmen with an opportunity to take over the reins of leadership and in the latter case present a tribute and fond farewell to the graduating class.

Despite the fact that the advisors were directing the fortunes of the Perk-O-Lator for the first time, the newspaper maintained the familiar newsy flavor that has always made it an enjoyable adventure in reading.

Monitors

"Slow down there"; "Please keep to the right." Familiar phrases in the halls of Upper Perk, they are the by-words of an efficient squad of monitors. Dominated by seniors, the group is directly responsible for the splendid order sustained in the halls. Visitors to Upper Perk have often commented on their efficiency. Since some of the monitors are juniors, we have no doubt that the tradition as well as the order will be maintained.

BAND OFFICERS
Standing—Dorothy Winsch, Terry Bieler, Marguerite Shuhler. Seated: James Shupa, Jeanne Hug.

Accompanied by our high-stepping marjorettes and snappy color guard, the 1959 edition of the Upper Perkiomen Marching Band, capably directed by a newcomer to the Upper Perk staff, Mr. Vincent Bercher, delighted audiences everywhere they went with their clever routines and precise formations. And who can ever forget the spirit generated by the blare and thunder of this well-drilled aggregation. Whether they were executing their famous war dance on the gridiron or leading the parade down Main street, the band added significantly to the splendor of every occasion.

Always active in community affairs, our band participated in the Pennsburg, Boyertown, and Gilbertsville Halloween Parades, giving generously of their time and talents.

And speaking of talent, we would be remiss if we didn't salute our Bux-Mont Band representatives. To those who earned this highest of musical honors and to Mr. Bercher, their competent tutor, congratulations! And to the entire band who experienced more than the usual pains of transition—well done!

Varsity Cheerleaders

Our nine energetic cheerleaders promoted school spirit not only at athletic events, but at pep rallies and bonfires as well. Their frenzied gyrations and infectious zeal injected color and gaiety into every game, parade, exhibition, and event they attended.

Mrs. Moser, their sponsor and coach, has done another exemplary job with these Perky lassies. The group, captained by Dolores Yerk, met weekly to rehearse those delightful maneuvers and clever routines that contributed so materially to the pageantry of each occasion.

The future looks bright, too, for those snappy jayvee cheerleaders have invoked plenty of enthusiasm in the appearances they have made thus far. Morale shouldn't be any problem if these gals have anything to say about it.

Future Farmers of America

The principles set up by the National FFA are filled with practical philosophy, reflecting a spirit and sincerity that show the true viewpoint of farm youth, the "backbone of a nation."

Although the boys learn the value of working in close harmony, individual achievement is emphasized in the planning of each member's project work. In this respect Upper Perkiomen is especially proud of Irving Doremus, a member of the senior class. Irving received the coveted Keystone Farmer Degree in Harrisburg in January, 1960.

January also marked the opening of the Pennsylvania Farm Show, and once again the FFA under the competent direction of Mr. Ensminger readied their exhibit to be placed in competition with nine other schools. The theme, "I'm Always Reddy," one of the best in the eleven consecutive years that Upper Perk has displayed its acumen, won second prize. Shortly thereafter the project was awarded the blue ribbon in the Pennsylvania Electrical Association Division Contest.

At the expense of sounding repetitious, we wish to extend our congratulations to Mr. Ensminger and the boys of the Vocational Agriculture Department who have made a delightful habit of winning awards and honors for Upper Perkiomen.

Swinging paint brushes, planning harmonious color schemes for the home, gaining mastery of the sewing machine—these are just some of the skills developed by young ladies of the FHA. An active and ambitious group, these proteges of Mrs. Yoder and Mrs. Newcomer carry out a vigorous program which includes varied social activities such as the annual "Sweetheart Dance," presented this year on February 13.

Consistent with their motto "Toward New Horizons" the girls, together with their sponsors, plan experiences in home economy, interior decorating, kitchen science, and gracious living so that the lives of their families will be happier and more comfortable in the world of tomorrow.

"And Never Been Kissed"

On April 17 and 18, 1959, the Class of 1960 presented its first dramatic performance, "And Never Been Kissed."

It was a warm comedy concerning the antics of a romantic almost-sweet-sixteener in her attempt to find love. Over a period of three months and as many boy friends, one perplexing situation following another, she finally found love, (to everyone's relief). The play borrowed the age-old axiom "and they lived happily ever after" for its final note.

The patience of our capable director, Mrs. Anne Raymond, the hard-working committees, and the hilarious lines made this play a memorable performance.

Senior Play

"Home Sweet Homicide"

A delightful mystery-comedy, "Home Sweet Homicide" offered audiences a wonderful change of pace from our junior year production. After the first painful preparations, tryouts, and taxing rehearsals, the play was put together in splendid time, and on December 11 and 12 receptive patrons warmly applauded the seniors' efforts.

Especially memorable was the performance of

It's Mr. Sanford! Is he dead? Is he dead?

Nice tackle, Dee-Dee

Ronnie Marks with his "I've raised nine kids of my own, so I know." Nor shall we ever forget Darlene Reeves' "Petey-boy" or Dee Dee Yerk's bone jarring tackles.

Again the competent direction of Mrs. Raymond stood out in bold relief as the cast drew one gale of laughter after another from the bemused spectators.

Naturally, the effective support of stage crews, prop men, and committee workers was revealed in the success of the play. Working diligently to execute their often thankless tasks, these seniors added the ingredient of perseverance which, blended with the talents of cast and directress, produced an evening of unforgettable pleasure.

Although outmanned, the 1959 Upper Perkiomen eleven was never outfought. Throughout a losing season the games never ceased to be exciting.

Under Head Coach Steven Knight and new assistant coaches Michael Duka and Walter Schmidt, Upper Perk opened its 1959 football season with a non-league game on Boyertown's gridiron. Down by two touchdowns, Upper Perk rallied gallantly in the second half, but Boyertown was able to hold on to a two point edge as the final score read 14-12.

Upper Perkiomen initiated Bux-Mont competition at home and nearly upended, through efficient teamwork, a favored Central Bucks eleven. Upper Perk took an early lead, but the final score read Central Bucks 21, Upper Perk 12.

The 1959 season was highlighted by the clash with Quakertown. A battle of two winless elevens produced a high scoring and dramatic evening of decision as the Panthers avenged last season's defeat at Upper Perk with a 33-19 victory.

Trying to salvage some prestige from a winless season, the Indians played heavily favored Souderton to a standstill for two quarters. However, the powerful visitors ground out a second half victory with an awesome display of power and outscored Upper Perk 42-7.

Viewed in restrospect, the season provided the Indians' followers with copious thrills. In the power-packed Bux-Mont League, Upper Perk acquitted its coaches and personnel, not with titles and unbeaten skeins, but with an indomitable spirit. Moreover, the Indians displayed a caliber of performance that often had to compensate for the lack of depth which cast us in the role of the perennial underdog.

Our hats are off to the coaches and the squad who so nobly carried our banner through the 1959 season.

striving for victory,

The varsity hockey team coached by Mrs. Merring opened the 1959 campaign with two pre-season scrimmages. In the opener the varsity chalked up a victory at the expense of the Spring-Ford Rams, but in their meeting with the Boyertown Bears, they had to settle for a tie.

Action in the Bux-Mont League began September 23 when Meltha Rothenberger and Carol Bieler scored the winning goals to lead Upper Perk to a satisfying victory over Pennridge.

The following week the Perkettes faced Ambler, and although the Indians fought valiantly they were unable to take home a victory, dropping a 3-1 verdict. Meltha Rothenberger scored Upper Perk's lone goal.

Trying to break into the winning column, Upper Perk took on Quakertown the next week in an exciting game played on a scorching afternoon. Neither team being able to score, the game ended in a stalemate.

On October 6 at Central bucks, the elements again intervened; this time a pouring rain hampered the action. The score was tied until the last few seconds when Central Bucks was able to tally the winning score. Dolores Yerk scored Upper Perk's only goal.

Regaining the winning touch, the Perkettes downed Souderton for their second victory of the season. Dolores Yerk scored Upper Perk's winning goal in the last few seconds of the game.

The Perkettes made it two in a row with another squeaker and took the measure of Hatboro by virtue of Meltha Rothenberger's goal and a tight defense.

Co-captains Dolores Yerk, Meltha Rothenberger

Against Upper Moreland, the Perkettes, plagued by miscues and unfortunate circumstances, just couldn't get started. Dolores Yerk's counter was the only bright spot as we fell 2-1.

In the season finale, the gals from Upper Perk engaged a strong North Penn aggregation. Filled with determination and inspired by Meltha Rothenberger's first half goal, the Perkettes fought a gallant but losing battle as a late North Penn rally earned our opponents a hard-fought 2-1 decision.

Despite the closing defeat, the girls can take justifiable pride in their accomplishments. The 1959 squad compiled the best record in Bux-Mont competition by any Upper Perk hockey team since the school entered the league in 1956.

Here's a nosegay for the coaches and team personnel. You were great!

Junior Varsity Hockey

Eager to test their abilities against all-comers, the Upper Perkiomen jayvees left the reservation to try their tomahawks on Spring-Ford and Boyertown. In the first encounter they were gloriously successful but returned with an understanding of humility after their tussle with the Bears.

In their first Bux-Mont scrap, the junior varsity helped themselves to a 2-0 whitewash of Pennridge, but while they were still warm with victory the following week, Ambler returned the compliment by exactly the same score.

Convinced that there is no such thing as an easy game, the gals tried their luck with a scrappy Quakertown aggregation. A combination of sun, heat, and unyielding defenses produced a scoreless tie.

The succeeding three contests resulted in one triumph, a 3-1 pasting at the expense of Souderton, and two losses administered by Hatboro and Central Bucks, the latter a 2-0 clubbing.

In the season's finale, an overpowering North Penn squad cut down our Perky stickers who fought the proverbial gallant but losing battle.

Even though the season ended on a sour note, the team can take heart in the knowledge that victory was always within their grasp and that their desire and effort may well result in a highly successful varsity season next year. In fact, we are sure of it.

Manager—Elaine Lachman.

Up the court

Too much and too little. That was the story of the Cagers' campaign. Too much height on the other side and too little on ours cast the Indians in the role of underdogs in virtually every contest. With only one starter over the six foot mark, the lads from Upper Perk fought gamely against their taller Bux-Mont tormentors and managed to salvage a few, well-earned victories.

Among their victims were Hatboro and Souderton. Especially brilliant was the victory over the latter, a satisfying 60-42 scalping.

Mr. Francis Petruny, in his first year as varsity coach, turned out a club full of aggressiveness and court savvy. That our boys were well-coached was evidenced by the number of close decisions in which they were involved. A break here or there could have made a world of difference. From the results of this season's forays, we can see that successful years are ahead, for the 1959-60 squad has demonstrated the finesse and desire to be a winning combination.

Even the best Bux-Mont fives will not soon forget some of the anxious moments our determined Indians gave them. Nice going, gang!

Junior Varsity Basketball

While the sweet taste of victory might have been infrequent, the young Indians, coached by Mr. Michael Duka, never relinquished their claims to the enemy's scalp and clawed their way to several inspiring wins over highly-regarded Bux-Mont quintets.

Showing an indomitable spirit from the very beginning of the season's action, the Jayvees took the measure of a perennially difficult foe, Boyertown. A good independent, the Bears made a real battle of it right down to the wire.

Finding the winning touch an elusive quality, the Indians finally broke out of a mid-season slump with a rousing victory over Souderton. A come-from-behind triumph, the win was even more satisfying, since it came at the expense of a Bux-Mont competitor.

Because a decision over the best makes any season a success, regardless of winning percentages, the boys from Upper Perk went after Springfield with a vengeance. In this, the season finale, victory seemed imminent as the Indians showed the way for three quarters. But the lads from Erdenheim were not to be denied, and in a hectic finish the favorites squeezed by with the narrowest of margins.

Beyond a doubt, the hustle and determination of Mr. Duka's charges reflect the spirit that is the very essence of team play. It is by these standards that a squad is judged, and in this respect the season was one of success.

Girls' Varsity Basketball

Finishing with a 3-6 log for the campaign, the Upper Perkiomen Indians supplied their followers with a season of thrills and a few satisfying memories. Meltha Rothenberger, Dolores Yerk, Carol Bieler, and Kay Hallman sparked the gals to victories over Boyertown, a tough, non-league opponent; Upper Moreland, a Bux-Mont competitor; and Hatboro, also a league foe.

On the debit side of the ledger the record shows losses to Pennridge, a 46-45 thumper, and successive reverses to Central Bucks, North Penn, Quakertown, and Souderton.

Mrs. Merring and Miss Orlando are to be congratulated for the fine play and excellent sportsmanship exhibited by the squad. Also deserving of high praise are those oft forgotten guards whose unenviable job it is to get the ball and set up the defense. We think Sharon Schultz, Barb Brode, Becky Breyer, and Betty Shupe rate special honors. And since all but Sharon are underclassmen, a winning season next year is a distinct and happy possibility.

Girls' Junior Varsity

Like the varsity, the jayvees raised the curtain of the 1959-60 season with a close decision over Boyertown, skimming by with a 15-14 verdict.

Having gained a measure of confidence in their first encounter, the fledglings from Upper Perk took on a highly rated Ambler team and administered a 21-13 varnishing in a pleasing exhibition of dash and skill.

Fresh from such a gratifying triumph, the girls little dreamed what surprises Upper Moreland had in store for them. And there it was; four dismal quarters of mistakes and frustrations left us wondering how it could have happened. Upper Moreland, of course, deserved the 25-13 triumph.

After that, the youngsters just couldn't do anything right, and tracing the hapless path of the varsity, lost consecutive games to Central Bucks, North Penn, Quakertown, and Souderton.

Hoping to salvage something from a season that had produced some unpleasant memories, the jayvees turned on luckless Hatboro with a vengeance, handing their last opponent a licking that restored some of the morale our squad will need to launch their season next year as members of the varsity. Here's hoping!

Track and Field

In its fourth year of track, Upper Perk is anticipating a fine season in its 1960 spring meets, primarily in Bux-Mont competition. The team is under the astute guidance of Richard Shell and Frederick Wavrek, who have worked hard for the past four years to develop the capabilities of our track stars.

We dare anyone to break Raymond Roeder's 5′10″ high jump, or throw a javelin farther than Tony Perestis' 160 feet. And racing along a half mile strip in 2 minutes 10 seconds as Pete Melcher does is pretty fast work. Beating Eugene Cleaver's 18′6″ broad jump and Grant Gaugler's 10′ pole vault will take some doing. Edward Fiorito's 37′ shot-put and Charles Russo's 125′ discus toss should give future Bux-Mont competitors something to shoot at. Keep breaking those records, boys!

Who for? What for?

Raymond Roeder, Upper Perk's outstanding senior high jump specialist won this gold medal last year at the Bux-Mont meet held at Central Bucks H.S. This medal is given only to the athlete attaining any of the first three positions in his respective event.

Cafeterial and Janitorial Staffs

Accustomed as students are to the comforts of a well-run school plant and an efficiently operated cafeteria, many lose sight of the conscientious effort of these staff workers who keep us warm in the winter, safe, and well-fed the whole year round. The thousand and one details they attend to in the course of an ordinary day provide us with a measure of comfort and convenience without which our pursuit of knowledge would be an impossibility. We hope a heartfelt "Thank you" will suffice.

Nurses

How reassuring it is to know that we have two competent nurses on our staff to give us medical aid and advice when we don't feel up to par.

Secretaries

We also appreciate the services of our three fine secretaries who assume the clerical duties so necessary to maintaining an efficient high school.
